This report contains estimates of frequencies of taxpayer entries and estimates of monetary amounts recorded on the applicable lines of the forms and schedules filed as part of corporation tax returns as shown in the 2017 Statistics of Income (SOI) Complete Report.

The estimates of counts and monetary amounts on 1120 Series forms are aggregated and presented on Form 1120. Items unique to specific 1120 Series forms are shown separately on the specific return type. 1120 Series forms included in the SOI statistical sample are:

Form 1120
Form 1120-F
Form 1120-L
Form 1120-PC
Form 1120-REIT
Form 1120-RIC
Form 1120S

Estimates of counts and monetary amounts for attached forms and schedules for 1120 Series tax returns are categorized by the form or schedule and are inclusive across all 1120 Series forms to which they were attached, unless specifically noted on the form. For example, estimates for Form 1120 Schedule D are inclusive across all 1120 Series forms included in the sample except 1120S, because Schedule D exists as a separate form for 1120S returns.

Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data

This section describes the sample design, sample selection, data capture, data cleaning, and data completion processes for the Statistics of Income (SOI) 2017 Corporation Statistics Program. It also presents the techniques used to produce estimates of the total number of active corporations and associated variables as well as an assessment of the data limitations, including sampling and nonsampling errors.

Background

From Tax Year (TY) 1916 through TY 1950, SOI extracted data from each corporate income tax return filed. Beginning with TY 1951, however, SOI introduced stratified probability sampling. Since that time, the sample size has generally decreased while the corporate tax return population has increased. For example, for 1951, the sample accounted for 41.5 percent of the entire population, or 285,000 of the 687,000 total returns filed. For 2017, the sample accounted for about 1.77 percent of the total population of just under 6.8 million returns. This population count differs from the estimated population count cited elsewhere in this publication because the sampling frame includes out-of-scope and duplicate returns.

For 1951, SOI stratified the sample by size of total assets and industry. However, from 1952 through 1967, SOI stratified the sample by a measure of size only. The size was measured by either business volume (1953–1958) or total assets (1952 and 1959–1967). Since 1968, SOI has stratified returns by both total assets and, for Forms 1120 and 1120S, a measure of income [1].

Target Population

The target population consists of all returns of active corporations organized for profit that are required to file one of the 1120 forms included in this study.

Survey Population

The survey population includes corporate tax returns filed using one of the 1120 forms selected for the study and posted to the IRS Business Master File (BMF). Excluded are amended returns and returns for which the tax liabilities changed because of a tax audit. Figure E gives the number of corporate returns by form type that were subject to sampling during Tax Years 2014 through 2017, as well as the resulting sample sizes.

Sample Design

The current design is a probability sample stratified by form type and either by 1) size of total assets alone or 2) size of total assets and a measure of income. Form 1120 returns are stratified by size of total assets and size of "proceeds," which is the measure of income for this form. Size of proceeds is defined as the larger of the absolute value of net income (or deficit) or the absolute value of "cash flow," which is the sum of net income, several depreciation amounts, and depletion. Form 1120S is stratified by size of total assets and size of ordinary income. SOI stratified all other 1120 forms (1120-L, 1120-PC, 1120-RIC, 1120-REIT, and 1120-F) by size of total assets only.

SOI began the design process with projected population totals derived from IRS administrative workload estimates, adjusted according to the distribution by population strata from several previous survey years. Using projected population totals by sample strata, SOI carried out an optimal allocation based on strata standard errors to assign sample sizes to each stratum such that the overall targeted sample size was approximately 116,600 returns for 2017, a slight decrease from the 2016 target. Mathematical statisticians selected a Bernoulli sample independently from each stratum, with sampling rates ranging from 0.25 percent to 100 percent. The total realized sample for 2017, including inactive and noneligible corporations, is 120,098 returns.

Sample Selection

The IRS Cincinnati, Kansas City, and Ogden Submission Processing Centers initially process all corporate returns to determine tax liability before transmitting the data daily to the BMF. After error correction, these returns are said to "post" to the BMF, which serves as the SOI sampling frame. SOI selects the sample on a weekly basis.

Sample selection for TY 2017 occurred over the 24-month period, July 2017 through June 2019. SOI requires a 24-month sampling period for two reasons. First, around 7.5 percent of all corporations use noncalendar-year accounting periods. To capture these returns, the 2017 statistics include all corporations filing returns with accounting periods ending between July 2017 and June 2018. Second, many corporations, including some of the largest corporations, request 6-month filing extensions. This combination of noncalendar-year accounting periods and filing extensions means that the last TY 2017 returns the IRS received had accounting periods ending in June 2018, and therefore, had to be filed by October 2018. However, taking into account the 6-month extension, these returns could have been filed as late as March 2019 and still be considered timely. To account for the normal processing time, the sample selection process remained open for the 2017 study until the end of June 2019. However, SOI added a few very large returns to the TY 2017 sample as late as July 2019.

Each tax return in the survey population is assigned to a stratum and subject to sampling. Each filing corporation has a unique Employer Identification Number (EIN). An integer function of the EIN, called the Transformed Taxpayer Identification Number (TTIN), is computed. The number formed by the last four digits of the TTIN is a pseudo-random number. A return for which this pseudo-random number is less than the sampling rate multiplied by 10,000 is selected for the sample.

The algorithm for generating the TTIN does not change from year to year. Therefore, corporations selected for the sample in any given year may be selected the following year, providing the corporation files a return using the same EIN and it falls into a stratum with the same or higher sampling rate. If the corporation falls into a stratum with a lower rate, the probability of selection will be the ratio of the second-year sampling rate to the first-year sampling rate. If the corporation files with a new EIN, the probability of selection will be independent from the prior-year selection [2].

Data Capture

Data processing for SOI begins with information already extracted for IRS administrative purposes; over 100 items available from the BMF system are checked and corrected as necessary. SOI extracts some 2,500 additional data items from the corporate tax returns during processing. This data-capture process can take as little as 15 minutes for a small, single-entity corporation filing Form 1120, or up to several weeks for a large, consolidated corporation filing several hundred attachments and schedules with the return. The process is further complicated by several factors:

- Over 2,500 separate data items may be extracted from any given tax return. This often requires constructing totals from various other items elsewhere on the return.
- Each 1120 form type has a different layout with different types of schedules and attachments, making data extraction less than uniform for the various forms.
- There is no legal requirement for a corporation to meet its tax return filing requirements by filling in, line by line, the entire U.S. tax return form. Therefore, many corporate taxpayers report financial details using schedules of their own design or using commercial tax-preparation software packages.
- There is no single accepted method of corporate tax accounting in the United States, but rather, several accepted "guidelines," which can vary by geographic location. SOI staff attempt to standardize these differences during data abstraction and editing.
- Different companies may report the same data item, such as other current liabilities, on different lines of the tax form. SOI staff also attempt to standardize these differences.

To help staff overcome these complexities and differences in taxpayer reporting, for each tax year, SOI prepares detailed instructions for the editing units at the IRS Submission Processing Centers. For TY 2017, these instructions covered standard and straightforward procedures and instructions for addressing data exceptions.

Data Cleaning

SOI staff enter data directly into the database from the corporate tax returns selected for the sample. In this context, the term "editing" refers to the combined interactive processes of data extraction, consistency testing, and error resolution. SOI runs hundreds of tests to check for inconsistencies, including the following:

- Impossible conditions, such as incorrect tax data for a particular form type;
- Internal inconsistencies, such as items not adding to totals;
- Questionable values, such as a bank with an unusually large amount reported for cost of goods sold and/or operations; and
- Improper sample class codes, such as when a return has $100 million in total assets but was selected as though it had $1 million because the last two digits of the total assets were keyed in as cents.

Data Completion

In addition to the tests mentioned above, SOI addresses missing data items and identifies returns to be excluded from the tabulations. The data completion process focuses on these issues.

Beginning with the TY 2012 sample, the criteria for imputing balance sheets for returns with incomplete balance sheets changed significantly. Now, only the largest returns with incomplete balance sheets are subject to SOI's balance sheet imputation procedure. As a result, the number of returns with imputed balance sheets will be negligible, and SOI will perform imputation on an ad hoc basis only.

SOI uses various methods to impute data for some certainty returns unavailable for editing, depending on the information available at the time the return needs to be completed for the sample. These corporations are identified from the previous year's sample using a combination of assets and receipts. Additional corporations may be identified to ensure industry coverage. SOI uses data filed electronically for those corporate returns selected for the sample, but unavailable for statistical processing. For TY 2017, there were 48 returns that met these criteria. For some returns not selected for the sample, if the current tax return was not located and no other current tax data were available, then SOI used data from the previous year's return, with adjustments for tax law changes, if needed.

The data completion process also includes identifying returns not eligible for the sample as the BMF may have duplicate and other out-of-scope returns. These returns include those filed by nonprofit corporations, returns having neither current income nor deductions, and prior-year tax returns. Additionally, amended or tentative returns, nonresident foreign corporations having no effectively connected income with a trade or business located in the United States, fraudulent returns, and returns filed by tax-exempt corporations are not eligible for the sample. Figure F displays the number of inactive sampled returns excluded from the tabulations, as well as the percentages of the total sample size they represent for 2014 through 2017.

Figure G provides estimates of the number of active corporations by form type for 2014 through 2017. For Forms 1120-L and 1120-PC, these estimates may differ from the population counts in Figure E due to changes made during the data capture and data cleaning processes.

Estimation

SOI bases the estimates of the total number of corporations and associated variables produced in this report on weighted sample data using either a one-step or two-step process, depending on the form type filed. Under the one-step process, SOI assigns a weight for the return, which is the reciprocal of the realized sampling rate, adjusted for unavailable returns, outliers, weight trimming, and any other necessary adjustments. SOI used these weights, referred to as the "national weights," to produce the estimates published in this report for Forms 1120-F, 1120-L, 1120-PC, 1120-RIC, and 1120-REIT, as well as Forms 1120 and 1120S returns that were sampled with certainty.

The two-step process is used to improve the estimates by industry for returns filed on either Form 1120 or Form 1120S that are not selected in self-representing strata. The first stage of the two-step process is to assign an initial weight for the return as described above. The second stage involves post-stratification by industry and sample selection class. SOI uses a bounded raking ratio estimation approach to determine the final weights because certain post-stratification cells may have small sample sizes [3]. SOI used these final weights to produce the aggregated frequency and money amount estimates that are published in this report for these forms.

Data Limitations and Measures of Variability

SOI uses several extensive quality review processes to improve data quality. This starts at the sample selection stage with weekly monitoring to ensure the proper number of returns is selected, especially in the certainty strata. These processes continue through the data collection, data cleaning, and data completion procedures with consistency testing. Part of the review process includes extensive comparisons between the sample year (2017) and prior-year (2016) data. SOI designed each processing stage to ensure data integrity.

Sampling Error

Since the TY 2017 estimates are based on a sample, they may differ from population aggregates resulting from a complete census of all corporate income tax returns. The TY 2017 sample is one of many possible samples that could have been selected under the same sample design. Estimates derived from one possible sample could differ from those derived from another, and also from the population aggregates. The deviation of a sample estimate from the average of all possible similarly selected samples is called the sampling error.

The standard error (SE), a measure of the average magnitude of the sampling errors over all possible samples, can be estimated from the realized sample. The estimated standard error is usually expressed as a percentage of the value being estimated. This is called the estimated coefficient of variation (CV) of the estimate, and it can be used to assess the reliability of an estimate. The smaller the CV, the more reliable the estimate is deemed to be.

SOI calculates the estimated coefficient of variation of an estimate by dividing the estimated standard error by the estimate itself and taking the absolute value of this ratio. Table 1 (see Section 4) shows the estimated coefficients of variation by industrial groupings for the estimated number of returns as well as selected money amounts.

The estimated coefficient of variation, CV(X), can be used to construct confidence intervals for the estimate X. The es- timated standard error, which is required for the confidence interval, must first be calculated. For example, the estimated number of companies in the manufacturing sector with net income and the corresponding estimated coefficient of variation can be found in Table 1 and used to calculate the estimated standard error:

$$\begin{aligned} SE(X) &= X \bullet CV(X) \\ &= 145{,}437 \text{ x } 3.61/100 \\ &= 5{,}250 \end{aligned}$$

A 95-percent confidence interval for the estimated number of returns in manufacturing is constructed as follows:

$$\begin{aligned} X \pm 2 \bullet SE(X) &= 145{,}437 \pm (2 \text{ x } 5{,}250) \\ &= 145{,}437 \pm 10{,}500 \end{aligned}$$

The interval estimate is 134,937 returns to 155,937 returns. This means that if all possible samples were selected under the same general conditions and sample design, and if an estimate and its estimated standard error were calculated from each sample, then approximately 95 percent of the intervals from two standard errors below the estimate to two standard errors above the estimate would include the average estimate derived from all possible samples. Thus, for a particular sample, it can be said with 95-percent confidence that the average of all possible samples is included in the constructed interval. This average of the estimates derived from all possible samples would be equal to or near the value obtained from a census.

Nonsampling Error

In addition to sampling error, nonsampling error can also affect the estimates. Nonsampling errors can be classified into two groups: random errors, whose effects may cancel out, and systematic errors, whose effects tend to remain somewhat fixed and result in bias.

Nonsampling errors include coverage errors, nonresponse errors, processing errors, or response errors. The inability to obtain information for all sampled returns, differing interpretations of tax concepts or taxpayer instructions, inability to provide accurate information at the time of filing (data are collected before auditing), and inability to obtain all tax schedules and attachments may cause these errors. These errors may also be caused by data recording or coding errors, data collecting or cleaning errors, estimation errors, and failure to represent all population units.

Coverage Errors: Coverage errors in the SOI corporation data can result from the difference between the time frame for sampling and the actual time needed for filing and processing the returns. Since many of the largest corporations receive filing-period extensions, they may file their returns after the closing date for sample selection, as explained in the Sample Selection description, which appears earlier in this section. However, any of the largest returns found are added into the file until the final file is produced.

Coverage problems within industrial groupings in the SOI Corporation study may result from the way consolidated returns are filed. The Internal Revenue Code permits a parent corporation to file a single return, which includes the combined financial data of the parent and its subsidiaries. These data are not separated into the different industries but are entered into the industry with the largest receipts. Thus, there is undercoverage of financial data within certain industries and overcoverage in others. Coverage problems within industries present a limitation on any analysis of the sample results.

Nonresponse Errors: There are two types of nonresponse errors: unit and item. Unit nonresponse occurs when a sampled return is unavailable for SOI processing. For example, other areas of the IRS may have the return at the time it is needed for statistical processing. These returns are termed "unavailable returns."

Item nonresponse occurs when certain items are unavailable for a return selected for SOI processing, even if the return itself is available. An example of item nonresponse would be items missing from the balance sheet, even though other items have been reported.

Processing Errors: Errors in recording, coding, or processing the data can cause a return to be sampled in the wrong sampling class. This type of error is called a misstratification error. One example of how a return might be misstratified is the following: a corporation files a return with total assets of $100,000,023 and net income of $5,000. A processing error causes the last two digits of the total assets to be keyed in as cents, so that the return is classified according to total assets of $1,000,000.23 and net income of $5,000.00. The return would be misstratified according to the incorrect value of the total assets stratifier. To adjust for misstratification errors, only returns selected in a noncertainty stratum that really belonged in a certainty stratum were moved to this certainty stratum.

Response errors: Response errors are due to data being captured before audit. Some purely arithmetical errors made by the taxpayer are corrected during the data capture and cleaning processes. Because of time constraints, SOI does not incorporate adjustments to a return during audit into the file.

Line Item Data Confidence Intervals

The data shown for each form in this publication is taken from the Statistics of Income (SOI) 2017 Corporate Tax Return Sample and is therefore subject to the same data limitations that are detailed in the 2017 SOI Corporate Income Tax Complete Report (Publication 16). Because these data are statistically sampled, the money amounts are estimates and should not be treated as actual money amounts. As such, the data contained here are from a sample that could be one of a number of possible samples of corporate tax returns. Because each sample would contain different returns, estimates constructed from each sample would vary. The sample estimate, along with the estimated standard error, allows the computation of confidence intervals indicating that the estimate is contained within the interval with the prescribed confidence. Below are the computed 95% confidence intervals for selected variable counts that are shared among one or more Form 1120 return types, along with the associated Coefficient of Variation (CV). The variables selected are detailed in the 2017 SOI Corporate Income Tax Complete Report (Publication 16).

Notes on Data Estimates

Estimates marked with an asterisk (*) preceding the data are based on a small number of sampled returns and should be used with caution. A dash (-) or zero shown in place of an estimate indicates that there were no returns having that characteristic, or the characteristic was so rare that it did not appear on any sampled returns. The symbol (d) indicates that this value (and the associated money amount) was suppressed to avoid disclosure of information for specific corporations. Detail may not add to total due to taxpayer reporting, rounding, and the impact of adjustments or other items not shown separately.

Some attachments to Form 1120 series returns were excluded because the quantities represented in the sample were insufficient for this publication. These attachments are:

- Form 6478, Biofuel Producer Credit;
- Form 8609-A, Annual Statement for Low-Income Housing Credit;
- Form 8826, Disabled Access Credit;
- Form 8834, Qualified Electric Vehicle Credit;
- Form 8896, Low Sulfur Diesel Fuel Production Credit; and
- Form 8910, Alternative Motor Vehicle Credit

Data for items common across the various 1120 return types are shown as aggregates on Form 1120. Each 1120 return type displays counts and amounts for items unique to that return type as well as some common fields which are included in the aggregates on Form 1120, including:

- Total income (loss)
- Total deductions
- Taxable income
- Tax computation items
- Total assets
- Total liabilities
- Schedule M-1 items
- Schedule M-2 items

[1] Counts and amounts for this data item are included in the aggregate totals shown on Form 1120.

[2] Balance sheet data is not available for returns filing Form 1120-F, U.S. Income Tax Return of a Foreign Corporation. There is no 1120-F balance sheet information included in the aggregate balance sheet data shown on Form 1120.

[3] Data for 1120-REIT, 1120-RIC, and 1120S have been excluded from the following forms: 3468, 3800, 4626, 5884, 6765, 8586, 8820, 8827, 8835, 8844, 8845, 8846, 8864, 8874, 8881, 8882, 8903, 8911, 8936, 8941. The resulting taxation and credit for these items are passed through to individual tax returns, and thus are excluded from corporate income tax return line item estimates.

Who Must File

Generally, any foreign corporation that is required to complete Form 1120-F, Section II must complete Schedules M-1 and M-2 (Form 1120-F). However, the following rules apply.

Do not complete Schedules M-1, M-2, and M-3 if total assets at the end of the tax year (Schedule L, line 17, column (d)) are less than $25,000.

Complete Schedule M-3 in lieu of Schedule M-1 if total assets at the end of the tax year that are reportable on Schedule L are $10 million or more.

A corporation filing Form 1120-F that is not required to file Schedule M-3 may voluntarily file Schedule M-3 instead of Schedule M-1. See the Instructions for Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F) for more information.

Foreign corporations that (a) are required to file a Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F) and have less than $50 million in total assets at the end of the tax year or (b) are not required to file a Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F) and voluntarily file a Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F) must either (1) complete Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F) entirely or (2) complete Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F) through Part I and complete Schedule M-1 instead of completing Parts II and III of Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F). If the foreign corporation chooses (2), then Schedule M-1, line 1 must equal Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F), Part I, line 11. See the Instructions for Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F) for more information.

Note: If Schedule M-3 is completed in lieu of Schedule M-1, the corporation is still required to complete Schedule M-2.

Specific Instructions

Schedule M-1

Line 1. Net income (loss) per books. The foreign corporation must report on line 1 of Schedule M-1 the net income (loss) per the set or sets of books taken into account on Schedule L.

Line 5c. Travel and entertainment expenses. Include any of the following:

- Meal and entertainment expenses not deductible under section 274(n).
- Expenses for the use of an entertainment facility.
- The part of business gifts over $25.
- Expenses of an individual over $2,000 that are allocable to conventions on cruise ships.
- Employee achievement awards over $400.
- The cost of entertainment tickets over face value (also subject to the 50% limit under section 274(n)).
- The cost of skyboxes over the face value of nonluxury box seat tickets.
- The part of luxury water travel expenses not deductible under section 274(m).
- Expenses for travel as a form of education.
- Other nondeductible travel and entertainment expenses.

Line 7a. Tax-exempt interest. Report any tax-exempt interest received or accrued, including any exempt-interest dividends received as a shareholder in a mutual fund or other regulated investment company. Also report this same amount in item P at the top of page 2 of Form 1120-F.

Schedule M-2

Line 1. Beginning balance of unappropriated retained earnings. Enter the beginning balance of unappropriated retained earnings per the set(s) of books taken into account on Schedule L.

Note: For additional information for Schedule M-2 reporting, see the Instructions for Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F).

Who Must File

Generally, any foreign corporation that is required to complete Form 1120-F, Section II must complete Schedules M-1 and M-2 (Form 1120-F). However, the following rules apply.

Do not complete Schedules M-1, M-2, and M-3 if total assets at the end of the tax year (Schedule L, line 17, column (d)) are less than $25,000.

Complete Schedule M-3 in lieu of Schedule M-1 if total assets at the end of the tax year that are reportable on Schedule L are $10 million or more.

A corporation filing Form 1120-F that is not required to file Schedule M-3 may voluntarily file Schedule M-3 instead of Schedule M-1. See the Instructions for Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F) for more information.

Foreign corporations that (a) are required to file a Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F) and have less than $50 million in total assets at the end of the tax year or (b) are not required to file a Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F) and voluntarily file a Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F) must either (1) complete Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F) entirely or (2) complete Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F) through Part I and complete Schedule M-1 instead of completing Parts II and III of Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F). If the foreign corporation chooses (2), then Schedule M-1, line 1 must equal Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F), Part I, line 11. See the Instructions for Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F) for more information.

Note: If Schedule M-3 is completed in lieu of Schedule M-1, the corporation is still required to complete Schedule M-2.

Specific Instructions

Schedule M-1

Line 1. Net income (loss) per books. The foreign corporation must report on line 1 of Schedule M-1 the net income (loss) per the set or sets of books taken into account on Schedule L.

Line 5c. Travel and entertainment expenses. Include any of the following:

- Meal and entertainment expenses not deductible under section 274(n).
- Expenses for the use of an entertainment facility.
- The part of business gifts over $25.
- Expenses of an individual over $2,000 that are allocable to conventions on cruise ships.
- Employee achievement awards over $400.
- The cost of entertainment tickets over face value (also subject to the 50% limit under section 274(n)).
- The cost of skyboxes over the face value of nonluxury box seat tickets.
- The part of luxury water travel expenses not deductible under section 274(m).
- Expenses for travel as a form of education.
- Other nondeductible travel and entertainment expenses.

Line 7a. Tax-exempt interest. Report any tax-exempt interest received or accrued, including any exempt-interest dividends received as a shareholder in a mutual fund or other regulated investment company. Also report this same amount in item P at the top of page 2 of Form 1120-F.

Schedule M-2

Line 1. Beginning balance of unappropriated retained earnings. Enter the beginning balance of unappropriated retained earnings per the set(s) of books taken into account on Schedule L.

Note: For additional information for Schedule M-2 reporting, see the Instructions for Schedule M-3 (Form 1120-F).

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Use Form 1125-A to calculate and deduct cost of goods sold for certain entities.

Who Must File

Filers of Form 1120, 1120-C, 1120-F, 1120S, 1065, or 1065-B, must complete and attach Form 1125-A if the applicable entity reports a deduction for cost of goods sold.

Inventories

Generally, inventories are required at the beginning and end of each tax year if the production, purchase, or sale of merchandise is an income-producing factor. See Regulations section 1.471-1. If inventories are required, you generally must use an accrual method of accounting for sales and purchases of inventory items.

Exception for certain taxpayers. If you are a qualifying taxpayer or a qualifying small business taxpayer (defined below), you can adopt or change your accounting method to account for inventoriable items in the same manner as materials and supplies that are not incidental.

Under this accounting method, inventory costs for raw materials purchased for use in producing finished goods and merchandise purchased for resale are deductible in the year the finished goods or merchandise are sold (but not before the year you paid for the raw materials or merchandise, if you are also using the cash method).

If you account for inventoriable items in the same manner as materials and supplies that are not incidental, you can currently deduct expenditures for direct labor and all indirect costs that would otherwise be included in inventory costs. See the instructions for lines 2 and 7.

For additional guidance on this method of accounting, see Pub. 538, Accounting Periods and Methods. For guidance on adopting or changing to this method of accounting, see Form 3115, Application for Change in Accounting Method, and its instructions.

Qualifying taxpayer. A qualifying taxpayer is a taxpayer that, (a) for each prior tax year ending after December 16, 1998, has average annual gross receipts of $1 million or less for the 3 prior tax years, and (b) its business is not a tax shelter (as defined in section 448(d)(3)). See Rev. Proc. 2001-10, 2001-2 I.R.B. 272.

Qualifying small business taxpayer. A qualifying small business taxpayer is a taxpayer that, (a) for each prior tax year ending on or after December 31, 2000, has average annual gross receipts of $10 million or less for the 3 prior tax years, (b) whose principal business activity is not an ineligible activity, and (c) whose business is not a tax shelter (as defined in section 448 (d)(3)). See Rev. Proc. 2002-28, 2002-18 I.R.B. 815.

Uniform capitalization rules. The uniform capitalization rules of section 263A generally require you to capitalize, or include in inventory, certain costs incurred in connection with the following.

- The production of real property and tangible personal property held in inventory or held for sale in the ordinary course of business.
- Real property or personal property (tangible and intangible) acquired for resale.
- The production of real property and tangible personal property by a corporation for use in its trade or business or in an activity engaged in for profit.

See the discussion on section 263A uniform capitalization rules in the instructions for your tax return before completing Form 1125-A. Also see Regulations sections 1.263A-1 through 1.263A-3. See Regulations section 1.263A-4 for rules for property produced in a farming business.

Future Developments

For the latest information about developments related to Form 8816 and its instructions, such as legislation enacted after they were published, go to www.irs.gov/Form8816.

General Instructions

Purpose of form. Form 8816 must be filed by insurance companies that elect to take an additional deduction under section 847.

Consolidated return. Each member of a consolidated group claiming a section 847 deduction must file a separate Form 8816. Do not combine several taxpayers on one Form 8816. If a consolidated return is filed on Form 1120 and one or more members of the group is claiming a section 847 deduction, enter "Form 8816" and the amount on the dotted line next to line 13 on Form 1120, Schedule J, Part II. This will assist the IRS in properly accounting for your Special Estimated Tax Payments.

When to file. Attach Form 8816 to the Form 1120-PC, Form 1120-L, or Form 1120 filed for the tax year of the additional deduction and for each subsequent tax year that has a remaining amount of unpaid losses resulting from the deduction.

Specific Instructions

Note: All line references to Form 1120-L, Form 1120-PC, and Form 1120 are to the 2016 forms.

Part I. Special Loss Discount Amount

Accident year. Enter the four-digit accident year in the space provided at the top of each column. For example, enter accident year 2015 as 2015.

Line 1. Enter the undiscounted unpaid losses (as defined in section 846(b)) for each accident year, measured as of the end of the tax year, related to losses incurred in tax years beginning after December 31, 1986.

Line 2. Enter the related discounted unpaid losses determined under section 846.

Part II. Special Loss Discount Account (SLDA)

Keep a separate SLDA for each accident year for which an additional deduction under section 847 is claimed. Do not net amounts from one year against amounts from another year.

Line 4. Enter the balance in the SLDA at the beginning of the year for which this return is filed.

Line 5. The amount entered on line 5 may not exceed the amount on line 3. The total of the amount(s) reported on line 5 must be

Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

Corporations use Form 8827 to figure the minimum tax credit, if any, for AMT incurred in prior tax years and to figure any minimum tax credit carryforward.

Who Should File

Form 8827 should be filed by corporations that had:

- An AMT liability in 2016,
- A minimum tax credit carryforward from 2016 to 2017, or
- A qualified electric vehicle credit not allowed for 2016 (see the instructions for line 3).

Line 3

Enter any qualified electric vehicle credit not allowed for 2016 solely because of tentative minimum tax limitations.

Line 5

Enter the corporation's 2017 regular income tax liability (as defined in section 26(b)) minus any credits allowed under Chapter 1, Subchapter A, Part IV, subparts B, D, E, and F of the Internal Revenue Code (for example, if filing Form 1120, subtract any credits on Schedule J, Part I, line 5a through 5c, from the amount on Schedule J, Part I, line 2).

Line 6

See the 2017 Instructions for Form 4626 to find out if the corporation is treated as a "small corporation" exempt from the AMT for 2017. If the corporation is a "small corporation" exempt from the AMT, see section 38(c)(6) before completing line 6 for special rules that apply to controlled corporate groups.

Line 7b

A corporation can elect to claim unused minimum tax credits in lieu of claiming the special depreciation allowance (bonus depreciation) for qualified property (as defined in section 168(k)(2)) placed in service during the tax year. Once made, this election cannot be revoked without IRS consent.

If the corporation elects to accelerate the minimum tax credit and obtain a refundable credit in lieu of the special depreciation allowance, complete the Worksheet for Calculating the Refundable Minimum Tax Credit Amount, later in the instructions. Enter the amount from line 9 of the worksheet on Form 8827, line 7b. All others, enter zero on line 7b.

If a partnership has a single corporate partner that owns (directly or indirectly) more than 50% of the capital and profits interests in the partnership at all times during the tax year, then each partner takes into account its distributive share of partnership depreciation in determining its bonus depreciation amount. For more information, see section 168(k)(4)(D)(iii).

For more information on the election to accelerate the minimum tax credit in lieu of claiming the special depreciation allowance, see section 168(k)(4). For more information on the special depreciation allowance, see the Instructions for Form 4562 and Pub. 946, How To Depreciate Property.

S corporations that make the election to accelerate the minimum tax credit can use the credit only against the built-in gains tax. See the Instructions for Schedule D (Form 1120S). Corporations that file Form 1120-REIT or Form 1120-RIC must apply the credit first against the built-in gains tax, if any, and reduce the refundable credit by the amount so applied. See the instructions for the Built-in Gains Tax Worksheet in the instructions for those forms.

Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

Corporations use Form 8827 to figure the minimum tax credit, if any, for AMT incurred in prior tax years and to figure any minimum tax credit carryforward.

Who Should File

Form 8827 should be filed by corporations that had:

- An AMT liability in 2016,
- A minimum tax credit carryforward from 2016 to 2017, or
- A qualified electric vehicle credit not allowed for 2016 (see the instructions for line 3).

Line 3

Enter any qualified electric vehicle credit not allowed for 2016 solely because of tentative minimum tax limitations.

Line 5

Enter the corporation's 2017 regular income tax liability (as defined in section 26(b)) minus any credits allowed under Chapter 1, Subchapter A, Part IV, subparts B, D, E, and F of the Internal Revenue Code (for example, if filing Form 1120, subtract any credits on Schedule J, Part I, line 5a through 5c, from the amount on Schedule J, Part I, line 2).

Line 6

See the 2017 Instructions for Form 4626 to find out if the corporation is treated as a "small corporation" exempt from the AMT for 2017. If the corporation is a "small corporation" exempt from the AMT, see section 38(c)(6) before completing line 6 for special rules that apply to controlled corporate groups.

Line 7b

A corporation can elect to claim unused minimum tax credits in lieu of claiming the special depreciation allowance (bonus depreciation) for qualified property (as defined in section 168(k)(2)) placed in service during the tax year. Once made, this election cannot be revoked without IRS consent.

If the corporation elects to accelerate the minimum tax credit and obtain a refundable credit in lieu of the special depreciation allowance, complete the Worksheet for Calculating the Refundable Minimum Tax Credit Amount, later in the instructions. General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Future Developments

For the latest information about developments related to Form 8869 and its instructions, such as legislation enacted after they were published, go to www.irs.gov/Form8869.

Purpose of Form

A parent S corporation uses Form 8869 to elect to treat one or more of its eligible subsidiaries as a qualified subchapter S subsidiary (QSub).

The QSub election results in a deemed liquidation of the subsidiary into the parent. Following the deemed liquidation, the QSub is not treated as a separate corporation and all of the subsidiary's assets, liabilities, and items of income, deduction, and credit are treated as those of the parent.

CAUTION Because the liquidation is a deemed liquidation, do not file Form 966, Corporate Dissolution or Liquidation. However, a final return for the subsidiary may have to be filed if it was a separate corporation prior to the date of the deemed liquidation. No final return is required if this election is being made pursuant to a reorganization under section 368(a)(1)(F) and Rev. Rul. 2008-18. See Rev. Rul. 2008-18, 2008-13 I.R.B. 674, for details.

Eligible Subsidiary

An eligible subsidiary is a domestic corporation whose stock is owned 100% by an S corporation and is not one of the following ineligible corporations.

- A bank or thrift institution that uses the reserve method of accounting for bad debts under section 585.
- An insurance company subject to tax under subchapter L of the Code.
- A corporation that has elected to be treated as a possessions corporation under section 936.
- A domestic international sales corporation (DISC) or former DISC.

See sections 1361(b)(3), 1362(f), and their related regulations for additional information.

When To Make the Election

The parent S corporation can make the QSub election at any time during the tax year. However, the requested effective date of the QSub election generally cannot be more than:

- 12 months after the date the election is filed, or
- 2 months and 15 days before the date the election is filed.

An election filed more than 12 months before the requested effective date will be made effective 12 months after the date it is filed. An election filed more than 2 months and 15 days after the requested effective date generally is late and will be made effective 2 months and 15 days before the date it is filed. However, an election filed more than 2 months and 15 days after the requested effective date will be accepted as timely filed if the corporation can show that the failure to file on time was due to reasonable cause.

To request relief for a late election, the corporation generally must request a private letter ruling and pay a user fee in accordance with Rev. Proc. 2017-1, 2017-1 I.R.B. 1 (or its successor). However, relief from the ruling and user fee requirements is available. See Rev. Proc. 2013-30, 2013-36 I.R.B. 173, for details.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

Employers use Form 8882 to claim the credit for qualified childcare facility and resource and referral expenditures. The credit is part of the general business credit. You may claim the credit any time within 3 years from the due date of your return on either an original or amended return.

Taxpayers, other than partnerships, S corporations, estates, or trusts, whose only source of this credit is from those pass-through entities, are not required to complete or file this form. Instead, they can report this credit directly on Form 3800.

How To Figure the Credit

The credit is 25% of the qualified childcare facility expenditures plus 10% of the qualified childcare resource and referral expenditures paid or incurred during the tax year. The credit is limited to $150,000 per tax year.

Qualified childcare expenditures are amounts paid or incurred:

- To acquire, construct, rehabilitate, or expand property that:
  1. Is to be used as part of a qualified childcare facility of the taxpayer,
  2. Is depreciable (or amortizable) property, and
  3. Is not part of the principal residence of the taxpayer or any employee of the taxpayer;
- For the operating expenses of a qualified childcare facility of the taxpayer, including expenses for training of employees, scholarship programs, and providing increased compensation to employees with higher levels of childcare training; or
- Under a contract with a qualified childcare facility to provide childcare services to employees of the taxpayer.

Note. Any expenses for childcare included in qualified childcare facility expenditures may not exceed the fair market value of such care.

A qualified childcare facility is a facility that meets the requirements of all applicable laws and regulations of the state or local government in which it is located, including the licensing of the facility as a childcare facility. The following conditions must also be met.

- The principal use of the facility must be to provide childcare (unless the facility is also the personal residence of the person operating the facility).
- Enrollment in the facility must be open to employees of the taxpayer during the tax year.
- If the facility is the principal trade or business of the taxpayer, at least 30% of the enrollees of the facility must be dependents of employees of the taxpayer.
- The use of the facility (or the eligibility to use the facility) must not discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees.

Qualified childcare resource and referral expenditures are amounts paid or incurred under a contract to provide childcare resource and referral services to employees of the taxpayer. The provision of the services (or the eligibility to use the services) must not discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8925 to report the number of employees covered by employer-owned life insurance contracts issued after August 17, 2006, and the total amount of employer-owned life insurance in force on those employees at the end of the tax year. Policyholders must also indicate whether a valid consent has been received from each covered employee, and the number of covered employees for which a valid consent has not been received.

For more information, see sections 101(j) and 6039I, and Notice 2009-48, 2009-24 I.R.B. 1085, available at www.irs.gov/irb/2009-24_IRB/ar11.html.

Definitions

Employer-owned life insurance contract. For purposes of Form 8925, an insurance contract is an employer-owned life insurance contract if it is owned by a policyholder as defined below, and covers the life of the policyholder's employee(s) on the date the life insurance contract is issued. If you have master contracts, see section 101(j)(3) for additional information.

Policyholder. For purposes of Form 8925 and these instructions, a policyholder is an "applicable policyholder" as defined in section 101(j)(3)(B). Generally, a policyholder is the person who owns the employer-owned life insurance contract, and who is (a) engaged in a trade or business that employs the person insured under the employer-owned life insurance contract and (b) the direct or indirect beneficiary of the employer-owned life insurance contract.

Related person. A related person is considered a policyholder if that person is (a) related to the policyholder (defined earlier) under sections 267(b) or 707(b)(1), or (b) engaged in a trade or business under common control with the policyholder. See sections 52(a) and (b).

Employee. Employee includes an officer, director, or highly compensated employee under section 414(q).

Insured. An individual must be a U.S. citizen or resident to be considered insured under an employer-owned life insurance contract. Both individuals covered by a contract covering the joint lives of two individuals are considered insured.

Notice and consent requirements. To qualify as an employer-owned life insurance contract, the policyholder must meet the notice and consent requirements listed below before the issuance of the contract.

1. Provide written notification to the employee stating the policyholder intends to insure the employee's life and the maximum face amount for which the employee could be insured at the time the contract was issued.

The written notification must include a disclosure of the face amount of life insurance, either in dollars or as a multiple of salary, that the policyholder reasonably expects to purchase with regard to the employee during the course of the employee's tenure. Additional notice and consent are required if the aggregate face amount of the employer-owned life insurance contracts with regard to an employee exceeds the amount of which the employee was given notice and to which the employee consented. See Q&A-9 and Q&A-12 in Notice 2009-48.

2. Provide written notification to the employee that the policyholder will be a beneficiary of any proceeds payable upon the death of the employee.

3. Receive written consent from the employee. See Valid consent under the instructions for line 4a.

Electronic notification and consent. The written notification and consent requirement can be met electronically only if the system for electronic notification and consent meets requirements 1 through 3, above. See Q&A-11 in Notice 2009-48 for more information.

Issue date of contract. Generally, the issue date of a life insurance contract is the date on the policy assigned by the insurance company on or after the date of application. For purposes of meeting the notice and consent requirements, the issue date of the employer-owned life insurance contract is the later of (1) the date of application of coverage, (2) the effective date of coverage, or (3) the formal issuance of the contract. See Q&A-4 in Notice 2009-48 for more information.
