Dear :

This letter is our final determination that you don't qualify for exemption from federal income tax under Internal Revenue Code (IRC) Section 501(a) as an organization described in IRC Section 501(c)(3). Recently, we sent you a proposed adverse determination in response to your application. The proposed adverse determination explained the facts, law, and basis for our conclusion, and it gave you 30 days to file a protest. Because we didn't receive a protest within the required 30 days, the proposed determination is now final.

Because you don't qualify as a tax-exempt organization under IRC Section 501(c)(3), donors generally can't deduct contributions to you under IRC Section 170.

We may notify the appropriate state officials of our determination, as required by IRC Section 6104(c), by sending them a copy of this final letter along with the proposed determination letter.

You must file the federal income tax forms for the tax years shown above within 30 days from the date of this letter unless you request an extension of time to file. For further instructions, forms, and information, visit www.irs.gov.

We'll make this final adverse determination letter and the proposed adverse determination letter available for public inspection after deleting certain identifying information, as required by IRC Section 6110. Read the enclosed Letter 437, Notice of Intention to Disclose - Rulings, and review the two attached letters that show our proposed deletions. If you disagree with our proposed deletions, follow the instructions in the Letter 437 on how to notify us. If you agree with our deletions, you don't need to take any further action.

If you have questions about this letter, you can call the contact person shown above. If you have questions about your federal income tax status and responsibilities, call our customer service number at 800-829-1040 (TTY 800-829-4933 for deaf or hard of hearing) or customer service for businesses at 800-829-4933.

Sincerely,

Dear :

We considered your application for recognition of exemption from federal income tax under Internal Revenue Code (IRC) Section 501(a). We determined that you don't qualify for exemption under IRC Section 501(c)(3). This letter explains the reasons for our conclusion. Please keep it for your records.

Issues

Do you qualify for exemption under IRC Section 501(c)(3)? No, for the reasons stated below.

Facts

You submitted Form 1023-EZ, Streamlined Application for Recognition of Exemption Under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

You attest that you were incorporated on X, in the state of Y. You attest that you have the necessary organizing document, that your organizing document limits your purposes to one or more exempt purposes within the meaning of the IRC Section 501(c)(3), that your organizing document does not expressly empower you to engage in activities, other than an insubstantial part, that are not in furtherance of one or more exempt purposes, and that your organizing document contains the dissolution provision required under Section 501(c)(3).

You attest that you are organized and operated exclusively to further charitable purposes. You attest that you have not conducted and will not conduct prohibited activities under IRC Section 501(c)(3). Specifically, you attest you will:

- Refrain from supporting or opposing candidates in political campaigns in any way

- Ensure that your net earnings do not inure in whole or in part to the benefit of private shareholders or individuals
- Not further non-exempt purposes (such as purposes that benefit private interests) more than insubstantially
- Not be organized or operated for the primary purpose of conducting a trade or business that is not related to your exempt purpose(s)
- Not devote more than an insubstantial part of your activities attempting to influence legislation or, if you made a Section 501(h) election, not normally make expenditures in excess of expenditure limitations outlined in Section 501(h)
- Not provide commercial-type insurance as a substantial part of your activities

You stated that your mission is to provide an inclusive and affordable space for the artists to create art, network, and sell their art.

Detailed information was subsequently requested. You own the retail space that is used by the artists to display and sell their art. Your goal is to assist artists in turning their passion into a paycheck. Space is open to all artists on first come first serve basis. You have approximately W museums/galleries in the general vicinity of your location. Currently, activities are conducted by volunteers, and you plan to compensate board members for a reasonable amount not to exceed v percent of the budget. You do not charge membership fees, instead you have a commission split that allows artists to keep t percent (the majority) of the sale and remaining u percent is paid to you.

Law

IRC Section 501(c)(3) provides for the exemption from federal income tax of organizations that are organized and operated exclusively for charitable, religious, educational, or other purposes as specified by the statute. No part of the net earnings may inure to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

Treasury Regulation Section 1.501(c)(3)-1(a)(1) provides that, in order to be exempt as an organization described in Section 501(c)(3) of the Code, an organization must be both organized and operated exclusively for one or more of the purposes specified in such section. If an organization fails to meet either the organizational test or the operational test, it is not exempt.

Treas. Reg. Section 1.501(c)(3)-1(c)(1) states that in order to meet the operational test, an organization will be regarded as operated exclusively for one or more exempt purposes only if it engages primarily in activities which accomplish one or more of such exempt purposes specified in IRC Section 501(c)(3). An organization will not be so regarded if more than an insubstantial part of its activities is not in furtherance of an exempt purpose.

Treas. Reg. Section 1.501(c)(3)-1(d)(1)(ii) provides that an organization is not organized or operated exclusively for one or more exempt purposes unless it serves a public rather than a private interest. It must not be operated for the benefit of designated individuals or the persons who created it.

In Revenue Ruling 71-395, 1971-2 C.B. 228, a cooperative art gallery was formed and operated by a group of artists for the purpose of exhibiting and selling their works and did not qualify for exemption under IRC Section 501(c)(3). It served the private purposes of its members, even though the exhibition and sale of paintings may be an educational activity in other respects.

Rev. Rul. 76-152, 1976-1 C.B. 151, held that an organization formed by art patrons to promote community understanding of modern art trends did not qualify for exemption under IRC Section 501(c)(3). The organization exhibited and sold the artwork of local artists, who received 90 percent of sales proceeds. This provision of direct benefits served the private interests of the artists and could not be dismissed as being merely incidental to its other purposes and activities, and therefore the organization was not operated exclusively for educational purposes.

In Better Business Bureau of Washington, D.C., Inc. v. United States, 326 U.S. 179 (1945), the Supreme Court held that the presence of a single non-exempt purpose, if substantial in nature, will destroy a claim for exemption regardless of the number or importance of truly exempt purposes.

In Goldsboro Art League, Inc. v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 75 T.C. 337, 344 (1980), the organization exhibited in its two public galleries, "an artist's more daring works in a part of the country where there were no nearby art museums or galleries." Due to the "difficulty attracting artists to exhibit their work," the organization offered the displayed works for sale. Moreover, the organization conducted numerous arts education activities and displayed its own permanent collection of art throughout various public buildings. Under these specific circumstances, the tax court found that the private benefit to the artists for the sale of their artwork was secondary and incidental to the primary purpose of educating the public on art.

Application of law

You are not described in IRC Section 501(c)(3) nor Treas. Reg. Section 1.501(c)(3)-1(a)(1) because you fail the operational test. Specifically, the facts show you are not operated exclusively for Section 501(c)(3) purposes but for the purpose of facilitating sales for the benefit of artists.

You are not operated exclusively for an exempt purpose as described in Treas. Reg. Section 1.501(c)(3)-1(c)(1) and Section 1.501(c)(3)-1(d)(1)(ii). The facts show you engage in the substantial non-exempt activity of providing a market for artists, thus furthering their private interests.

You are like the organizations described in Rev Rul. 71-395 and Rev. Rul. 76-152, as artists exhibit and sell their work to earn a commission. This is a substantial nonexempt purpose and furthers the private interest of the artists.

You are dissimilar to the organization described in Goldsboro Art League, Inc. You are not providing any educational activities to the public; rather, your only purpose is to facilitate art sales for any interested artist.

As held in Better Business Bureau of Washington, D.C., Inc., a single non-exempt purpose, if substantial, will preclude tax exemption under IRC Section 501(c)(3). The operation of artists selling artwork at a commission; a substantial part of your activities, furthers a non-exempt purpose.

Conclusion

You do not qualify for recognition of exemption from federal income tax as an organization described in IRC Section 501(c)(3) because you do not meet the operational test. You are not operated exclusively for exempt purposes, and you serve the private interest of your artists.

If you agree

If you agree with our proposed adverse determination, you don't need to do anything. If we don't hear from you within 30 days, we'll issue a final adverse determination letter. That letter will provide information on your income tax filing requirements.

If you don't agree

You have a right to protest if you don't agree with our proposed adverse determination. To do so, send us a protest within 30 days of the date of this letter. You must include:

- Your name, address, employer identification number (EIN), and a daytime phone number
- A statement of the facts, law, and arguments supporting your position
- A statement indicating whether you are requesting an Appeals Office conference
- The signature of an officer, director, trustee, or other official who is authorized to sign for the organization or your authorized representative
- The following declaration:

For an officer, director, trustee, or other official who is authorized to sign for the organization:

Under penalties of perjury, I declare that I have examined this request, or this modification to the request, including accompanying documents, and to the best of my knowledge and belief, the request or the modification contains all relevant facts relating to the request, and such facts are true, correct, and complete.

Your representative (attorney, certified public accountant, or other individual enrolled to practice before the IRS) must file a Form 2848, Power of Attorney and Declaration of Representative, with us if they haven't already done so. You can find more information about representation in Publication 947, Practice Before the IRS and Power of Attorney.

We'll review your protest statement and decide if you gave us a basis to reconsider our determination. If so, we'll continue to process your case considering the information you provided. If you haven't given us a basis for reconsideration, we'll send your case to the Appeals Office and notify you. You can find more information in Publication 892, How to Appeal an IRS Determination on Tax-Exempt Status.

If you don't file a protest within 30 days, you can't seek a declaratory judgment in court later because the law requires that you use the IRC administrative process first (IRC Section 7428(b)(2)).

Where to send your protest
